

Kidnap Girl Is Freed From Desert Hole; Gettle Is Released After Raid

6-Year-Old June Robles Was Kept in Irons in Small, Lonely Grave.

Tucson, Ariz., May 15 (AP).—Carlos G. Robles, assistant Pima county attorney and uncle of 6-year-old June Robles, flatly denied today rumors that the child's kidnappers had received $10,000 in ransom before she was released from her desert prison.

Physicians watched anxiously over the girl today to ascertain how seriously she may have been affected by an ordeal which might easily have killed her; blazing days of a sun that burned her skin and chilly, lonely nights in iron chains about her slender ankles.

Tucson, May 15 (AP).—June Robles, kidnapped April 25, was found alive, but "quite ill," chained under a heap of cactus and a half mile from Tucson Monday.

The discovery was made by Pima County Attorney Clarence Houston and Carlos Robles, assistant county attorney and uncle of the six-year-old girl.

Carlos Robles said no ransom had been paid, but that he and Houston were guided to the spot by information sent them by the asserted kidnappers.

"I want my mama!" the little girl cried weakly as the startled men bent over her.

She was chained by the ankles, in a hole which had been scooped out to simulate a shallow grave—2½ feet wide, six feet long and three feet deep. The hole was covered over with tin, dirty burlap and cactus.

Inside were a jug of water and a little food, including a loaf of bread, fairly fresh, and wilted oranges and vegetables.

Little June was very sunburned, dirty, and covered with vermin.

She was taken to the home of Bernabe Robles, her father.

A key to a padlock on the chain bound about her ankles was found lying on a piece of tin near the improvised prison hole.

Houston was not able to get down in the hole to unlock the chain, so he threw the key to June, who unlocked it herself. She was so weak she could not walk.

Got Letter From Gang
Carlos Robles and Houston said they followed directions contained in a special delivery airmail letter received at the office in Phoenix of Gov. B. B. Moer Monday, and forwarded here in the care of an Arizona highway patrolman.

The letter was postmarked Chicago. It was not signed, but the writing, Houston said, appeared identical with that of the original ransom note received two hours after June disappeared and a second note delivered last week.

Letter Kept Secret
The receipt of the letter by the governor had been held in strict confidence until it could be investigated. Houston and Carlos Robles had spent most of the day on the trail.

The communication, officials said, apparently was written by someone very familiar with the Tucson area.

The officials were instructed to drive out Broadway to Wilmont, turn south on Rincon way, drive a mile east, and walk 150 steps north.

They did so, and the child was there, in the covered hole which soon, they believed, would have become her tomb.

Appears Alert
Despite her physical exhaustion, and the cruel marks of the chains on her ankles, little June appeared mentally alert, and when assured she soon would see her mother, she asked about her report card.

Tentative examination indicated she would recover from her grueling experience.

Mrs. Helen Robles, June's mother, who has been prostrated by grief and shock, nearly swooned when the child was placed in her arms. She kissed her hungrily, and broke into uncontrollable weeping.

Names "Bill" and "Will"
Investigators expressed belief the little girl had been confined in the stuffy, cave-like cell, under the blazing Arizona desert sun, for

They were attended by Miss Rita Martin and James Martin, sister and brother of the bridegroom.

Three Men Admit Kidnapping Oil Millionaire; No Ransom Money Paid.

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP).—Three men arrested in the kidnapping of William F. Gettle, who was released unharmed and unharmed last night, were reported by authorities today to have admitted participation in the abduction of the Beverly Hills millionaire.

Statements of the three, made in the presence of police detectives, sheriff's deputies and post office inspectors named Jimmy Kirk as the alleged "brains" of the plot; Larry Kerrigan, as the man who guarded Gettle, and Roy Williams, as the one who aided in seizing the millionaire last week.

Under questioning Kerrigan was quoted as saying he was to have received $18,000 for guarding Gettle and that Kirk had ordered Gettle to write the letters regarding arrangements for delivery of the $60,000 ransom.

Kirk, in his statement, said the kidnap plot was his idea, but that Williams and Kerrigan helped him make the plans.

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP).—William F. Gettle, worn and haggard, but unharmed, was delivered from his kidnappers Monday night in a spectacular raid on a small Los Angeles home by sheriff's officers and police.

Acting on a tip received earlier in the day, the officers swooped on the house and arrested a man who gave his name as Roy Williams. A second man ran from the house and escaped.

Found Bound and Masked
On a bed inside the house the officers found the Beverly Hills millionaire, who was kidnapped from his country estate at Arcadia last Wednesday night as an all-day party was drawing to a close. Gettle lay flat on his back, his hands bound and a court plaster mask covered his face.

Police said he was unable to speak for a few minutes, but en route to the sheriff's office he told them the man who escaped was the "real brains" of the kidnap gang.

No Ransom Paid
Capt. William C. Bright, of the sheriff's homicide detail, announced no ransom was paid.

Gettle, as he was led through the crowd about the hall of justice, wore the glasses he was believed to have lost as he was hoisted over the wall of his Arcadia estate. Over these were a pair of smoked glasses, apparently given him by the kidnappers to wear as a disguise.

Although Gettle seemed drawn and haggard, there was a faint smile about his lips. The officers detained him briefly to seek identification of Kirk and the women. Officers expressed belief Kirk had conducted telephone negotiations with Ernest E. Noon, the family's

SUPERVISION OF ALL TRANSPORTS BY U. S. IS URGED

Public Relations Council for Eastern Railroads Addresses Club.

SAYS ROADS ARE SEEKING SAFETY

There can be no coordination of transportation facilities in the United States while trucks, ships and airplanes are free of the governmental supervision, regulation and control to which railroads are subjected, J. M. Fitzgerald, of New York city, said in an address at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Y. W. C. A., Monday evening.

Mr. Fitzgerald, who is public relations' counsel for eastern railroads, conceded that coordination of transportation facilities would benefit all common carriers if all were under governmental supervision.

30-Year Comparison
The speaker pointed out the advancements and developments in rail transportation in the past 30 years.

Answering the criticism that the railroads have not kept pace with the times as automobiles have, Mr. Fitzgerald declared that the locomotive of 30 years ago is as antiquated today as the automobile of three decades ago.

He pointed out that air conditioning systems are being installed in all of the finest trains in the country, but added that safety is the

BOARD ADOPTS SCHOOL BUDGET FOR NEXT TERM

$86,978.10 Estimated Receipts with Expenditures of $87,172.

CITES SURPLUS FOR THIS YEAR

Gettysburg's school board Monday night approved the budget for the 1934-35 school term as prepared and submitted by Superintendent of Schools Lloyd C. Keefeauver.

Superintendent Keefeauver presented each member of the board with a detailed estimate of Gettysburg's school budget for the coming term, in which the superintendent listed all facts and figures available at the present time and with closely estimated figures relative to amounts or funds not yet determined.

Mr. Keefeauver's budget follows in full:

Taxation
Assessed valuation of real estate $3,054,126. Number of mills levied 16. Number assessed with per capita tax 3,500. Per capita tax rate $3.00.

Face of tax duplicate, property, $48,866; per capita, $10,500; total tax duplicates, $59,366; exonerations and errors 15 per cent, $8,904.90. Net amount local revenue receipts, $50,461.10. A deduction of 15 per cent has been made to take care of exonerations and errors. This seems to be a reasonable percentage to deduct since in 1931 98 per cent of the taxes were collected; in 1932, 90 per cent; in 1933, 90 per cent. Up to May 1, 1934 approximately 85 per cent of this year's duplicate was collected.

Receipts
Taxes, property and per capita, $50,461.10; state appropriation, $21,930; tuition, $14,287; rent, $300. Total receipts, $86,978.10. Fifteen per cent has been deducted from the total amount of appropriation due. This amounts to a deduction of $3,670. There is a possibility, however, that this shortage may be covered by a deficiency appropriation by the legislature in 1935.

Expenditures—General Control
Secretary's office, salary, $250; supplies, $40; other expenses, $10. Superintendent of schools' office, salary, $3600; supplies, $100; other expenses $50. Treasurer, $50. Tax collector, $1250. Auditors, $57. Legal service, $50. Compulsory education, $450. Total, $5,907.

Instruction
Salaries of supervisors, $3,050; salary of principal, $2,325; salary of clerk, $600; other expenses of principal's office, $50; salaries of teachers, $51,100; textbooks, $2,000; supplies, $2,000; institute, $100; substitute teachers, $300; total, $61,525.

Auxiliary Agencies
Library, $800; medical inspection, $765; care of children in institutions, $200; community lectures, $25; health supplies, $100; total, $1,890.

Operation of School Plant
Wages of janitors, $3,800; fuel, $1,700; water, $350; light and power, $850; janitor supplies, $400; care of grounds, $200; total, $7,300.

Maintenance of School Plant
Upkeep of grounds, $1,000; repairs of buildings, $2,000; repairs and replacements, plumbing, heating, lighting, furniture, etc. $1,500; total, $4,500.

Fixed Charges
Retirement board, $1,750; insurance, $750; total, $2,500; total current, (Continued on Page Six)

Mr. Eisenhart will be head of the local lodge when the annual convention of state Elks is held here in August. He has been active in the committee on arrangements for the convention, handling the convention finances. Progress was reported by the various committees at the lodge meeting.

Wednesday evening of this week, local Elks will go to York to participate in the initiation of a class of candidates by York lodge.

Those making the trip will leave the Elks' home about 6:15 p. m. All members are invited and those desiring to attend are requested to notify George Smick, club steward, at the home, as soon as possible, so that arrangements for transportation can be made.

SHOE FACTORY PLAN STABLED BY LOCAL C. C.

Chamber Will Operate Parking Plot Here, May 30, Opposite Cemetery.

CONVENTION IS COMING MAY 20

A proposition of the management of the Littlestown shoe factory to establish a factory in Gettysburg was tabled at a meeting of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Monday evening.

Roy P. Funkhouser, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

The management of the Littlestown shoe factory stipulated that the town would have to raise $16,000 through the sale of stock before a factory could be established here.

C. A. Bixler, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that the boards of directors of the Hagerstown and Frederick Chambers of Commerce, had tentatively accepted the invitation of the local Chamber to attend a "good will" dinner-meeting here some time in June.

Conventions Coming
Henry M. Scharf reported that the state commandery of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will meet in Gettysburg on May 20, 21 and 22, and that the town will be asked to furnish decorations for center square during the convention.

The request for decorations was referred to council members in the Chamber.

Mr. Scharf also reported that the Gettysburg high school band had offered its services free to play in front of the Hotel Gettysburg on the evening of May 21, in connection with the convention.

Upon the suggestion of I. L. Taylor, of the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg committee, the presiding officer appointed Congressman Harry L. Haines and State Senator John S. Rice as honorary members of the anniversary committee.

Parking Plot
George W. Naylor, manager of the Gettysburg water company, offered the use of the company's lot, opposite the National cemetery, to the Chamber of Commerce as parking space on Memorial Day.

Mr. Funkhouser appointed Mr. Naylor, C. Ray Rupp and M. B. Frazer as a committee to take charge of the parking space and to employ all help necessary to operate the place on that occasion. Proceeds derived from the parking space will be turned into the treasury of the Chamber. Mr. Naylor was given a vote of thanks for tendering the use of the lot to the organization.

Mr. Scharf reported that a movement was on foot to route the Lincoln highway around Gettysburg, taking it from York through East Berlin, Heidlersburg, Biglerville and Arendtsville. This was referred to the good roads committee.

The Chamber also agreed to cooperate with the Gettysburg furniture factories in their semi-annual furniture shows held here.

Ten new members were reported.

VOTE IS LIGHT IN PRIMARIES

Less Than 400 Persons Cast Votes at Local Polling Places.

With rain falling steadily, voters were conspicuous by their absence at polling places in Gettysburg and Adams county today when standard-bearers of the democratic and republican parties were to be nominated.

The primary vote was one of the smallest in recent years in Gettysburg and Adams county. Less than 100 democratic and republican ballots were cast at each of Gettysburg's four voting places up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Rain, which began to fall before the polls opened at 7 o'clock this morning, gave indications of continuing throughout the day.

Returns will be received at the office of the Adams county commissioners in the court house this evening.

(By the A. P.)

Pennsylvanians went to the polls today to say the last word in a turbulent primary campaign that has thundered up and down the state for weeks.

Inclement weather—varying from a drenching rain in Pittsburgh to threatening skies in Philadelphia—kept the early turn-out of voters below expectations.

District Attorney Said Warrant Would Be Issued for His Arrest.

John L. Nute, of Chambersburg, whose automobile figured in an automobile accident, near Graefenberg inn, Sunday evening, resulting in the death of a York county mother and her daughter, will be prosecuted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, District Attorney John P. Butt announced today.

The warrant for Nute's arrest will be sworn out by Sergeant T. N. Boate, of the local sub-station of the state motor patrol, who, together with Corporal A. H. Shuller, of the Chambersburg sub-station, investigated the crash, Mr. Butt said.

The Adams county prosecutor said the charge against Nute would be laid regardless of any verdict the coroner's jury might render.

Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, will hold an inquest into the death of Miss Henrietta Warner, 16, who was instantly killed when the car driven by her brother and Nute's machine collided.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Leah Warner, 45, died as she was being admitted to the Chambersburg hospital.

Race Driver Sacrifices 7 Lives
In Effort to Spare Stray Dog

Fontainebleau, France, May 14 (AP)—Five men and two women were killed and six persons were injured Sunday as the driver of an automobile in a hill race tried to avoid hitting a stray dog and plunged into a group of spectators. The dog had wandered across the road where the race was being held and plunged into a group of spectators, waved to the driver, Eric Cochlin, a military aviator, calling his attention to the animal. Cochlin pulled quickly on his steering wheel to miss the animal, and the speeding car went out of control. A few seconds later it had killed six persons whose thoughts had been centered on saving the life of the mongrel. Cochlin died in a hospital a short time after the crash. The dog apparently escaped with its life as a result of Cochlin's act. One of the women was decapitated as the car struck her. Two of those killed were soldiers from the artillery school here. The race, arranged by the Fontainebleau Automobile club, attracted a huge throng of spectators, who were scattered along the course.

BARON REBUILDS
"SPITE" TOWER

Air Mail Fliers Refuse to Use Harrisburg Port Because of Hazard.

Harrisburg, May 14.—Baron Bestick rebuilt his wooden tower on the edge of the Harrisburg airport to a height of nearly a hundred feet Sunday and further complicated the air mail station here. Residents of the neighborhood were surprised to see the structure spring up again at the same spot on Mrs. Bestick's property, where it collapsed Thursday during a wind storm. Baron Bestick could not be reached for a statement Sunday night.

In the meantime, TWA flyers, carrying the air mail on a renewed contract between Los Angeles and Newark, passed over Harrisburg without landing to pick up mail here. Officials of the company have stated that they will not allow their planes to land here on account of the tower situation until further notice.

Casey Optimistic
Daniel N. Casey, secretary of the Capital Landing Field company, said that he believed that the TWA company was interested in continuing to use the Harrisburg field, as it had invested a considerable sum of money when it used the field before the service was discontinued two months ago. Mr. Casey said that the TWA officials would probably await the outcome of the court case pending against the baron before announcing their decision.

The case against the baron has been postponed the second time, and he is now scheduled to appear for a hearing in York on Thursday on a charge of maintaining a public nuisance. He has posted $2,000 bail pending the hearing.

Life Begins at 40 for Women
In Business, Miss Perkins Is Told

New York, May 14 (AP)—Even and less than three per cent earned as much as $4,000 a year. Two-fifths of the women were engaged in clerical work, one-fifth were teachers and all but thirty of the 534 occupations listed in the United States census were represented.

The general conclusion the report reached was that in the last few decades women have gone forward but only very slowly, and that only a "strikingly small proportion" of women have reached top positions.

The medium for highest earnings was found to be among women over 59 but under 60 years old. Two women in this group reported salaries of $25,000 a year, the peak for the study.

Earnings were found to increase with experience and age up to 60 years. For single women they were higher than for married women, and highest generally for women employed in the northeast and east north central sections of the country. The picture of the average woman the report called "far from dazzling." Her average age is 39½, she had had thirteen and a half years of occupational experience, and apparently looks forward to at least twenty more years of gainful activity.

One-fourth of the group received salaries less than $1,210, only one-fourth received more than $2,075

Kidnap Girl Is Freed From Desert Hole; Gettle Is Released After Raid

6-Year-Old June Robles Was Kept in Irons in Small, Lonely Grave.

Tucson, Ariz., May 15 (AP).—Carlos G. Robles, assistant Pima county attorney and uncle of 6-year-old June Robles, flatly denied today rumors that the child's kidnappers had received $10,000 in ransom before she was released from her desert prison.

Physicians watched anxiously over the girl today to ascertain how seriously she may have been affected by an ordeal which might easily have killed her; blazing days of a sun that burned her skin and chilly, lonely nights in iron chains about her slender ankles.

Tucson, May 15 (AP).—June Robles, kidnapped April 25, was found alive, but "quite ill," chained under a heap of cactus and a half mile from Tucson Monday.

The discovery was made by Pima County Attorney Clarence Houston and Carlos Robles, assistant county attorney and uncle of the six-year-old girl.

Carlos Robles said no ransom had been paid, but that he and Houston were guided to the spot by information sent them by the asserted kidnappers.

"I want my mama!" the little girl cried weakly as the startled men bent over her.

She was chained by the ankles, in a hole which had been scooped out to simulate a shallow grave—2½ feet wide, six feet long and three feet deep. The hole was covered over with tin, dirty burlap and cactus.

Inside were a jug of water and a little food, including a loaf of bread, fairly fresh, and wilted oranges and vegetables.

Little June was very sunburned, dirty, and covered with vermin.

She was taken to the home of Bernabe Robles, her father.

A key to a padlock on the chain bound about her ankles was found lying on a piece of tin near the improvised prison hole.

Houston was not able to get down in the hole to unlock the chain, so he threw the key to June, who unlocked it herself. She was so weak she could not walk.

Got Letter From Gang
Carlos Robles and Houston said they followed directions contained in a special delivery airmail letter received at the office in Phoenix of Gov. B. B. Moeur Monday, and forwarded here in the care of an Arizona highway patrolman.

The letter was postmarked Chicago. It was not signed, but the writing, Houston said, appeared identical with that of the original ransom note received two hours after June disappeared and a second note delivered last week.

Letter Kept Secret
The receipt of the letter by the governor had been held in strict confidence until it could be investigated. Houston and Carlos Robles had spent most of the day on the trail.

The communication, officials said, apparently was written by someone very familiar with the Tucson area.

The officials were instructed to drive out Broadway to Wilmont, turn south on Rincon way, drive a mile east, and walk 150 steps north.

They did so, and the child was there, in the covered hole which soon, they believed, would have become her tomb.

Appears Alert
Despite her physical exhaustion, and the cruel marks of the chains on her ankles, little June appeared mentally alert, and when assured she soon would see her mother, she asked about her report card.

Tentative examination indicated she would recover from her grueling experience.

Mrs. Helen Robles, June's mother, who has been prostrated by grief and shock, nearly swooned when the child was placed in her arms. She kissed her hungrily, and broke into uncontrollable weeping.

Names "Bill" and "Will"
Investigators expressed belief the little girl had been confined in the stuffy, cave-like cell, under the blazing Arizona desert sun, for

County Couple Married Today

Three Men Admit Kidnapping Oil Millionaire; No Ransom Money Paid.

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP).—Three men arrested in the kidnapping of William F. Gettle, who was released unharmed and unharmed last night, were reported by authorities today to have admitted participation in the abduction of the Beverly Hills millionaire.

Statements of the three, made in the presence of police detectives, sheriff's deputies and post office inspectors named Jimmy Kirk as the alleged "brains" of the plot; Larry Kerrigan, as the man who guarded Gettle, and Roy Williams, as the one who aided in seizing the millionaire last week.

Under questioning Kerrigan was quoted as saying he was to have received $18,000 for guarding Gettle and that Kirk had ordered Gettle to write the letters regarding arrangements for delivery of the $60,000 ransom.

Kirk, in his statement, said the kidnap plot was his idea, but that Williams and Kerrigan helped him make the plans.

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP).—William F. Gettle, worn and haggard, but unharmed, was delivered from his kidnappers Monday night in a spectacular raid on a small La Cresenta home by sheriff's officers and police.

Acting on a tip received earlier in the day, the officers swooped on the house and arrested a man who gave his name as Roy Williams. A second man ran from the house and escaped.

Found Bound and Masked
On a bed inside the house the officers found the Beverly Hills millionaire, who was kidnapped from his country estate at Arcadia last Wednesday night as an all-day party was drawing to a close. Gettle lay flat on his back, his hands bound and a court plaster mask covered his face.

Police said he was unable to speak for a few minutes, but en route to the sheriff's office he told them the man who escaped was the "real brains" of the kidnap gang.

No Ransom Paid
Capt. William C. Bright, of the sheriff's homicide detail, announced no ransom was paid.

Gettle, as he was led through the crowd about the hall of justice, where the sheriff's office is located, wore the glasses he was believed to have lost as he was hoisted over the wall of his Arcadia estate. Over these were a pair of smoked glasses, apparently given him by the kidnappers to wear as a disguise.

Although Gettle seemed drawn and haggard, there was a faint smile about his lips. The officers detained him briefly to seek identification of Kirk and the women. Officers expressed belief Kirk had conducted telephone negotiations with Ernest E. Noon, the family's (Continued on Page Six)

SUPERVISION OF ALL TRANSPORTS BY U. S. IS URGED

Public Relations Council for Eastern Railroads Addresses Club.

SAYS ROADS ARE SEEKING SAFETY

There can be no coordination of transportation facilities in the United States while trucks, ships and airplanes are free of the governmental supervision, regulation and control to which railroads are subjected, J. M. Fitzgerald, of New York city, said in an address at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Y. W. C. A., Monday evening.

Mr. Fitzgerald, who is public relations' counsel for eastern railroads, conceded that coordination of transportation facilities would benefit all common carriers if all were under governmental supervision.

30-Year Comparison
The speaker pointed out the advancements and developments in rail transportation in the past 30 years.

Answering the criticism that the railroads have not kept pace with the times as automobiles have, Mr. Fitzgerald declared that the locomotive of 30 years ago is as antiquated today as the automobile of three decades ago.

He pointed out that air conditioning systems are being installed in all of the finest trains in the country, but added that safety is the (Continued on Page Two)

BOARD ADOPTS SCHOOL BUDGET FOR NEXT TERM

$86,978.10 Estimated Receipts with Expenditures of $87,172.

CITES SURPLUS FOR THIS YEAR

Gettysburg's school board Monday night approved the budget for the 1934-35 school term as prepared and submitted by Superintendent of Schools Lloyd C. Keefeauver.

Superintendent Keefeauver presented each member of the board with a detailed estimate of Gettysburg's school budget for the coming term, in which the superintendent listed all facts and figures available at the present time and with closely estimated figures relative to amounts or funds not yet determined.

Mr. Keefeauver's budget follows in full:

Taxation
Assessed valuation of real estate $3,054,126. Number of mills levied 16. Number assessed with per capita tax 3,500. Per capita tax rate $3.00.

Face of tax duplicate, property, $48,866; per capita, $10,500; total tax duplicates, $59,366; exonerations and errors 15 per cent, $8,904.90. Net amount local revenue receipts, $50,461.10. A deduction of 15 per cent has been made to take care of exonerations and errors. This seems to be a reasonable percentage to deduct since in 1931 98 per cent of the taxes were collected; in 1932, 90 per cent; in 1933, 90 per cent. Up to May 1, 1934 approximately 85 per cent of this year's duplicate was collected.

Receipts
Taxes, property and per capita, $50,461.10; state appropriation, $21,930; tuition, $14,287; rent, $300. Total receipts, $86,978.10. Fifteen per cent has been deducted from the total amount of appropriation due. This amounts to a deduction of $3,470. There is a possibility, however, that this shortage may be covered by a deficiency appropriation by the legislature in 1935.

Expenditures—General Control
Secretary's office, salary, $250; supplies, $40; other expenses, $10. Superintendent of schools' office, salary, $3600; supplies, $100; other expenses $50. Treasurer, $50. Tax collector, $1,250. Auditors, $57. Legal service, $50. Compulsory education, $450. Total, $5,907.

Instruction
Salaries of supervisors, $3,050; salary of principal, $2,325; salary of clerk, $600; other expenses of principal's office, $50; salaries of teachers, $51,100; textbooks, $2,000; supplies, $2,000; institute, $100; substitute teachers, $300; total, $61,525.

Auxiliary Agencies
Library, $800; medical inspection, $765; care of children in institutions, $200; community lectures, $25; health supplies, $100; total, $1,890.

Operation of School Plant
Wages of janitors, $3,800; fuel, $1,700; water, $350; light and power, $850; janitor supplies, $400; care of grounds, $200; total, $7,300.

Maintenance of School Plant
Upkeep of grounds, $1,000; repairs of buildings, $2,000; repairs and replacements, plumbing, heating, lighting, furniture, etc. $1,500; total, $4,500.

Fixed Charges

Detailed announcement of the good will tour of Elks lodges, more than 300 of which will be visited on the tour, is contained in a full-page display article in the current issue of "Elks Magazine," the national publication of the lodge. In giving details of the tour, the magazine says:

"Four cars will proceed from historic Gettysburg on the morning of May 30. Two will visit Baltimore and then turn east for a swift journey into New England, where they will reverse and head north and west to arrive at Saratoga Springs, New York, in time for the New York state Elks convention. Eisenhart Heads Elks Lodge Here

Richard S. Eisenhart, an auditor at the local furniture company of offices, was elected exalted ruler of Gettysburg lodge No. 1045, B. P. O. E., at the annual election Monday evening. After the regular lodge meeting and initiation of five new members, luncheon was served the members in the grill.

None of the new officers had opposition. J. A. Holtzworth, re-elected secretary, will have D. L. Hammers as his assistant until he fully recovers from a severe illness and operation.

Mr. Eisenhart will be head of the local lodge when the annual convention of state Elks is held here in August. He has been active in the committee on arrangements for the convention, handling the convention finances. Progress was reported by the various committees at the lodge meeting.

Wednesday evening of this week, local Elks will go to York to participate in the initiation of a class of candidates by York lodge. Those making the trip will leave the Elks' home about 6:15 p. m. All members are invited and those desiring to attend are requested to notify George Smick, club steward, at the home, as soon as possible, so that arrangements for transportation can be made.

County Native's Funeral Wednesday

Funeral services for Samuel J. Lady, a native of Franklin township, but for many years a resident of Kansas, who died recently at the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wingert, Grantham, will be held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at Grantham. SHOE FACTORY PLAN STABLED BY LOCAL C. C.

Chamber Will Operate Parking Plot Here, May 30, Opposite Cemetery.

CONVENTION IS COMING MAY 20

A proposition of the management of the Littlestown shoe factory to establish a factory in Gettysburg was tabled at a meeting of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Monday evening.

Roy P. Funkhouser, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

The management of the Littlestown shoe factory stipulated that the town would have to raise $16,000 through the sale of stock before a factory could be established here.

C. A. Bixler, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that the boards of directors of the Hagerstown and Frederick Chambers of Commerce, had tentatively accepted the invitation of the local Chamber to attend a "good will" dinner-meeting here some time in June.

Conventions Coming
Henry M. Scharf reported that the state commandery of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will meet in Gettysburg on May 20, 21 and 22, and that the town will be asked to furnish decorations for center square during the convention. The request for decorations was referred to council members in the Chamber.

Mr. Scharf also reported that the Gettysburg high school band had offered its services free to play in front of the Hotel Gettysburg on the evening of May 21, in connection with the convention.

Upon the suggestion of I. L. Taylor, of the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg committee, the presiding officer appointed Congressman Harry L. Haines and State Senator John S. Rice as honorary members of the anniversary committee.

Parking Plot
George W. Naylor, manager of the Gettysburg water company, offered the use of the company's lot, opposite the National cemetery, to the Chamber of Commerce as parking space on Memorial Day.

Mr. Funkhouser appointed Mr. Naylor, C. Ray Rupp and M. B. Frazer as a committee to take charge of the parking space and to employ all help necessary to operate the place on that occasion. Proceeds derived from the parking space will be turned into the treasury of the Chamber. Mr. Naylor was given a vote of thanks for tendering the use of the lot to the organization.

Mr. Scharf reported that a movement was on foot to route the Lincoln highway around Gettysburg, taking it from York through East Berlin, Heidlersburg, Biglerville and Arendtsville. This was referred to the good roads committee.

The Chamber also agreed to cooperate with the Gettysburg furniture factories in their semi-annual furniture shows held here.

Ten new members were reported.

VOTE IS LIGHT IN PRIMARIES

Less Than 400 Persons Cast Votes at Local Polling Places.

With rain falling steadily, voters were conspicuous by their absence at polling places in Gettysburg and Adams county today when standard-bearers of the democratic and republican parties were to be nominated.

The primary vote was one of the smallest in recent years in Gettysburg and Adams county. Less than 400 democratic and republican ballots were cast at each of Gettysburg's four voting places up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Rain, which began to fall before the polls opened at 7 o'clock this morning, gave indications of continuing throughout the day.

Returns will be received at the office of the Adams county commissioners in the court house this evening.

Pennsylvanians went to the polls today to say the last word in a turbulent primary campaign that has thundered up and down the state for weeks.

Inclement weather—varying from a drenching rain in Pittsburgh to threatening skies in Philadelphia—kept the early turn-out of voters below expectations.

TO PROSECUTE JOHN NUTE IN FATAL MISHAP

District Attorney Said Warrant Would Be Issued for His Arrest.

John L. Nute, of Chambersburg, whose automobile figured in an automobile accident, near Graeffenburg inn, Sunday evening, resulting in the death of a York county mother and her daughter, will be prosecuted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, District Attorney John P. Butt announced today.

The warrant for Nute's arrest will be sworn out by Sergeant T. N. Boate, of the local sub-station of the state motor patrol, who, together with Corporal A. H. Shuller, of the Chambersburg sub-station, investigated the crash, Mr. Butt said.

The Adams county prosecutor said the charge against Nute would be laid regardless of any verdict the coroner's jury might render.

Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, will hold an inquest into the death of Miss Henrietta Warner, 16, who was instantly killed when the car driven by her brother and Nute's machine collided.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Leah Warner, 45, died as she was being admitted to the Chambersburg hospital.

On Monday Clarence Epley, Jr., 11, was stricken and a physician diagnosed his ailment as appendicitis. He was taken to the Annie W. Warner hospital at seven o'clock and later in the evening he was operated upon. His condition today is reported as good as can be expected.

BROADWAY HAS CHANGED MUCH

Great White Way of One Hundred Years Ago Was a Muddy Street with Trees.

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York—To one grown used to Broadway in terms of electric lamps and cinema palaces it seems incredible that Irving, Hawthorne, Clay, Dickens, Lincoln all lived here.

Old prints of the street a hundred years ago disclose a muddy boulevard lined with trees, almost deserted, with here and there a yellow coach drawn by four horses and followed by horsemen wearing wide-brimmed felt hats.

Commenting on it in his Broadway Journal, Edgar Allan Poe called it the finest street in the finest city in the world.

"It was a silent avenue shaded with bushy trees," writes Duvergier de Hauranne. "Often a catapala leans over from a courtyard wall, invading the street and hanging green garlands over it. Red brick houses, surrounded by graceful railings, where children played in the evenings on the thresholds."

Broadway—Port of Call

It would be fantastic to think of children playing on Broadway now. From 6 o'clock on, the night is shot with white, yellow, red, green, mauve and blue lights—a thousand dancing, jumping zigzagging, tumbling, leaping, twisting, rolling signs. Compared to Broadway, he says, the streets of Shanghai and Hamburg are dark lanes. The craving for amusement breaks out on Broadway like a revolution. It is the port toward which all America steers.

Broadway is one of the most accessible streets in town. A short walk will carry you to it no matter on what part of the island you happen to be. It moves diagonally the length of Manhattan and forms a giant "X" at its intersection with Seventh avenue. This "X" marks the spot where Times square is, the gaudiest stretch of street in the world. Gentility has fled eastward. One sees shooting galleries, nickelodeons, haberdasheries, cafeterias, newsstands, book shops, drug stores, first, second, third run movies, tobacco shops, coffee and doughnut palaces—all pigeon-holed in little two-by-four niches on each side of the street.

See the Sights

Sight-seeing buses, with glass ply between the square and such ports of call as Chinatown, the Bowery, the east side. Ballyhoo men, chorus girls, clerks, unemployed actors swarm like smelts in an early spring run.

Broadway will carry you to any of the little "old worlds" which dot the island. Follow it downtown to Twenty-first street, then meander over towards the Hudson. Without warning you are plunged into the heart of New York's Naples. The scene is Latin. Parmesan cheese, Tuscan loaves, dark olives, raw ham, wine—these are the things always apparent in Little Italy, with its dark-eyed girls and cigar-smoking men. The district is quiet and orderly, in sharp contrast to the days when Italian gangs armed with stiletos daily gave New York the jitters.

Further on one wanders across a quiet English garden, with pigeons cooing under extended eaves. Old London. In turn are found the New Syria, the celestial Scattered spread-eagle over the streets, and the Russian quarter, empire of Pell, Mott and Dover streets and the Russian quarter. Scattered spread-eagle over the island, each is within a stone's throw of Broadway.

You can get ear-pal-bored in wine and smothered with mushrooms for 99 cents in South street.

FRANCE SEEKS WORLD PEACE

Will Not Enter Preventive War to Prevent Germany From Rearming.

Paris, May 15 (AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue Monday night pledged that France would not enter a preventive war to keep Germany from rearming.

"Never will France take the initiative in aggression," said the 71-year-old head of the government in giving an account of his political truce government. He did not mention Germany by name.

Speaking on the eve of parliament's reopening, the former president urged the people to bring pressure on their representatives to end political fights within France which might cause "a new storm."

Cites Decreased Armaments

While France has decreased armaments, Doumergue said, "others have openly increased their armaments by sub-rosa methods, in violation of peace treaties."

"Our desire and need for real security, far from diminishing, have really been augmented," the premier asserted.

Skipping the question of war debts, Doumergue defined the French foreign policy as "a will for peace with everyone, with our hand joyfully extended to everyone who wishes to accept it without tongues in our cheek—without territorial ambition or other desires to satisfy."

Stresses Need For Security

"There is no hatred in our hearts against anyone, but a desire and an urgent need for security."

France, he continued, "is re-climbing the hill slowly" but he warned that "the wind, often after it has momentarily ceased to blow, comes back as a tempest and causes immense damage."

House Approves Monocacy Military Park Appropriation

Washington, May 15.—Establishment of a 50-acre national military park at the site of the Battle of Monocacy, Maryland, was approved unanimously by the house Monday.

The battlefield lies along the Monocacy river, three miles south of Frederick, on the Frederick-Washington boulevard. Here, on July 9, 1864, General Lew Wallace and a handful of Union troops engaged General Jubal A. Early's Confederate forces in an all-day fight which, historians say, frustrated General Early's attempt to capture the city of Washington.

Lewis Introduced Bill

The bill to preserve the plot was introduced by Representative Lewis (democrat, Maryland). It would authorize a federal appropriation of $50,000 to acquire the land and make appropriate improvements. The government has been told that the land could be purchased for about $2,500, which would leave $47,500 for the construction of roads and paths, improvement of the ground and establishment of markers and relief maps at various points.

A similar bill, carrying the same monetary authorization, passed the house in the seventieth congress but the senate reduced the amount to $5,000. Friends of the movement to preserve the battlefield considered this sum so inadequate that they made no effort to take advantage of the legislation and no part of the fund was appropriated.

Mr. Lewis' original bill provided for allocation of the money out of the public works fund, but the house, with his acquiescence, struck out that section and authorized the appropriation in the usual manner out of money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The bill now goes to the senate.

James R. McConaghie, of Gettysburg, is superintendent of the park.

POLAND GETS NEW CABINET

Champion of Large Landholding Class Is New Premier; Noted for Laugh.

Warsaw, May 15 (AP)—Leon Kozlowski, champion of the large landholding class who is best known for his gay laugh, succeeded in forming a new cabinet Monday with himself as premier.

Appointment of the 42-year-old war veteran and gentleman farmer is expected to give rise to a strong movement for agricultural reform.

He long has been identified with efforts in behalf of the hard-hit land-owners and is known as a man of exceptional energy.

Few Changes in Cabinet

The new government represents few changes as compared with the last ministry, which was headed by Janusz Jędrzejewicz. Apart from Kozlowski's appointment only two portfolios fell to new ministers.

Much interest was aroused by the naming of Henry Reismann, Jewish former vice minister of finance, to the post of minister of commerce and industry.

George Paciorekowsko succeeds Stefan Hubicki as minister of labor and social reform.

To Present Cabinet Today

Kozlowski will present the cabinet to President Moscicki today, when the president returns to Warsaw from his summer residence.

In political circles it is believed the change in premiers was brought on by Minister of War Pilsudski's desire to have a man at the head of the cabinet who will lay particular insistence on agricultural reform.

Pilsudski's retention of the war portfolio is taken to mean that he will continue to maintain firm control of the government.

burg, coroner for Franklin county, who has announced that an inquest into Mrs. Warner's death would be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at a Chambersburg funeral home, said today no inquest would be held unless Adams county paid the costs.

Doctor Thrush today asked District Attorney Butt if Adams county would pay the expenses of the inquest. Mr. Butt told Doctor Thrush it was not customary for the county in which an accident occurs to pay for an inquest into the death of a person who dies in another county.

Nute denied that he swerved his car toward the center of the highway to avoid running into a machine which stopped on the highway ahead of him. He told the investigating officer that his car skidded and that the Warner machine skidded into his automobile.

LINDY IGNORES AIR MAIL QUIZ

Famous Flyer Fails to Reply To Invitation From U. S. Committee.

(Copyright, 1934, By A. P.)

Washington, May 15. — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has ignored an invitation extended by the special committee investigating the army air corps to appear and give it any aeronautical data or information.

Disclosure that the famous flyer had not replied to the committee, headed by Newton D. Baker, wartime secretary of war, came Monday as it resumed sessions at the army war college.

Members of the committee, composed of nationally known aeronautical authorities, declined to comment on Lindbergh's silence.

Members "Disappointed"

Several members, however, have expressed their "disappointment" that Lindbergh had failed to make any acknowledgment. They wanted him to give facts and opinions concerning the air corps set up and recommendations for improvement in personnel, equipment or training.

When George H. Dern, secretary of war, first announced formation of the committee, he asked Lindbergh to become a member. In the heat of the controversy then raging around President Roosevelt's cancellation of air-line mail contracts, and the arm's assignment to the task, Lindbergh refused and attacked the president's air-mail policy.

Clarence Chamberlin and James Doolittle, two other famous fliers, accepted membership on the committee, and have participated in all sessions held here.

The committee under Baker's direction, has made a broad survey of the development of air-mail transportation in this country as a background on which to evaluate the air corps job of transporting mail in the emergency.

Two Teams Added To Firemen's Loop

Fairfield and Emmitsburg were admitted to the Adams county firemen's baseball league at a meeting of officials at the Gettysburg fire engine house, Monday evening. R. C. Neely, Fairfield, presided.

The addition of the two teams brings the membership in the league to eight. Other teams in the league began their season two weeks ago. Emmitsburg and Fairfield will launch their season with a double-header at Fairfield on Saturday.

With the addition of Fairfield and Emmitsburg to the league, a new schedule will be prepared. Announcement of the new schedule will be made later.

North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama; then east into Tennessee and West Virginia; then west into Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Two From Denver

The remaining two cars of the fleet will journey from Denver to Salt Lake City, through Nevada into California, south to San Diego, then east through Texas. From Texas they will go north into Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, then east into Missouri.

"Since 1929, when the first of the Elks good will tours was conducted, the cars of the fleets have visited every state in the union and approximately 70 per cent of the subordinate lodges."

"The good will ambassadors, pilots of the cars, have been greeted personally by the governors of a score of states and the leading municipal officials of practically every city visited. No less personages than former President Hoover and Franklin Delano Roosevelt have greeted the Elks emissaries. In 1931, while governor of New York state, President Roosevelt wrote personal messages of greeting to the chief executives of some eighteen states, the capitals of which were visited that year by the cars of the fleet, at which time these messages were delivered by the good will car pilots."

"That the annual good will tour has aroused the interest of thousands of people in the activities of the Elks is a fact proved by the hundreds of letters of inquiry received by The Elks Magazine during the course of each tour. Naturally the officials of the subordinate lodges are no less enthusiastic."

Spot Hidden in S. D. Hills Picked For Start of Stratosphere Hop

Washington, May 15 (AP)—The world's largest free balloon, seeking a new altitude record of fifteen miles, will ascend this summer almost from the shadow of the great national memorial carved on Mount Rushmore, South Dakota.

The take-off point for the flight, arranged by the army air corps and the National Geographic society, was announced Monday as a sheltered pocket in the Black hills, eleven and one-half miles southwest of Rapid City, South Dakota, and seven miles from Mount Rushmore. Piloting the balloon will be Major William E. Kepner and Capt. Albert W. Stevens, of the army air corps.

The flight will take place some time between June 15 and July 15, depending on weather conditions. The take-off site was chosen upon recommendation of the advisory committee of scientists for the flight. It is a grassy meadow 600 feet square and almost completely inclosed by hills and cliffs, which will protect the balloon from deflation.

The gas bag, largest free balloon ever constructed, will have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet. In open country a breeze of only five miles an hour might endanger the take-off, but in the Black hills pocket it is believed the balloon can be inflated to its full height of 300 feet without risk.

A western take-off point was selected to insure the balloon returning to earth in open country after drifting eastward with prevailing winds. Weather bureau research shows the region near Rapid City is likely to have several days of ideal weather from mid-June to mid-July, during which the atmosphere will be free of clouds and haze.

Dust To Be Disregarded

The weather bureau said dust storms, which might occur in the region unless the drought there is broken, would be unlikely to cloud the air more than one or two days at a time.

The exact date of the take-off will not be settled until probably twenty-four hours beforehand, the National Geographic society said, as good weather is essential for both the safety and success of the flight. Launching the huge bag is expected to be the most difficult problem ever faced with a free balloon. It will be three and one-half times larger than any other free balloon ever constructed, and will require nine hours to inflate.

When inflated for the take-off the balloon will be only partially filled with hydrogen gas, which will give it the general shape of an exclamation mark, higher than a twenty-story office building. Later, when it reaches the stratosphere, the decreasing atmospheric pressure will expand the gas and fill out the balloon to spherical shape.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

by Walter C. Brown

SYNOPSIS: Two men have been murdered in the Mocking House. All the evidence points to the fact that they shot each other, but Sergeant Harper does not believe they did. Howard Doyle, who inadvertently brought Mrs. Dufresne into the house, only to have her faint and injure herself, tells Harper that the detective will be glad the mistake was made.

Chapter 18

DOYLE'S CONTRIBUTION

"Here's the queer part. The Old Man acted human for once—but firm. I was off the case and that was that. It's puzzle, because I have good reasons for doubting that Dufresne would go behind my back about a thing like that."

"Why shouldn't he, Doyle? Mrs. Dufresne was scared half to death and it led to an injury that is very serious to any woman, and especially a beautiful woman."

"Sergeant, I'm surprised! Don't you know a detective's first duty is to keep his mind free from all prejudices, favorable or otherwise?" he laughed.

Harper's face began to redden. "I don't see anything funny about a beautiful woman having her face disfigured for life," he retorted.

"Of course you don't, Sergeant, and neither do I. Don't misunderstand me. In such a situation one must cultivate a philosophic attitude, like our friend Dufresne. If that had happened to your wife, or mine, we'd have taken a poke at the chap who caused the trouble."

"But Mr. Dufresne is content to sit and murmur 'C'est la main du Seigneur.' In case your French is a little rusty, that means 'It is the hand of God.' Does Dufresne's reaction seem regular and normal to you?"

Without waiting for an answer, Doyle continued. "I'm all washed up with this case, but I'm going to let fly a couple of broadsides before I go and you'll be smart enough to profit by them."

"What has that to do with you, since you've been withdrawn from the case?"

"That's what I'm coming to. Listen, you've talked with Dufresne about those 'crank' letters?"

"Yes."

"Didn't he sort of hint around the bush that the writer might turn out to be, shall we say, not a total stranger to him?"

"Yes, he hinted something like that."

"Didn't he give you the impression that there was something that he feared, but wouldn't talk about? He was pretty well shaken up over that ambush, wasn't he?"

"Yes, but that's only natural. No one but an idiot would make light of it."

"Don't you think it odd that the first time he went out without a bodyguard he was fired on? And that it occurred on a lonely road, far from the city?"

"No, it's not odd, if some one were waiting for just such a chance."

"That doesn't say much for the ability of Barry and Markison, who were supposed to be guarding him. I've always thought they were pretty good men."

"No one is infallible, Doyle."

"I think both Markison and Barry know their business," Doyle shrugged. "But let's look at it from another angle. Who knew where Dufresne was going on that trip?"

"Only himself, Mrs. Dufresne, and the two detectives, so far as we know. Possibly Andrews, the butler, knew also."

"All right, we'll drop that line, but think it over and see if it doesn't suggest something to you. Now, after you ran out on us so mysteriously, I got to thinking about the hints Dufresne had been handing out and I guessed you had made the sudden dash to give the latest developments to the new widow, and, incidentally, to find out just how she had been spending the evening. I remembered having seen her name in the society column, so I looked up the notice. I found that Mrs. Creighton Morlock's house was only about a mile from here, so I left and walked over."

"And was I surprised when I got there and found you hadn't been near the place! And let me tell you that the lady was expecting trouble. She didn't give me half a chance to tell my story. At the first words she ushered out of the house and into a car. The rest of the story you know."

Harper stirred restively. "I don't see where that alters the circumstances."

"Wait a minute, you haven't heard all of it yet." Doyle's alert eyes were fixed steadily on the detective's through the cigarette smoke. "By and by the smart detective on this case is going to call in everybody concerned, one by one, and ask, 'Where were you on the night of January 10th?' When that time comes, Harper, you're going to find that Mrs. Dufresne will have an alibi that is really no alibi at all—then what?"

"Certainly, I'm aware that there was a dinner party at Mrs. Morlock's last night and Mrs. Dufresne is a house guest there. But, you will hear that Mrs. Dufresne was so upset over the news of the attack on her husband yesterday afternoon that she developed a severe headache and remained in her room. She did not come down for dinner."

"I've found out that you tried to reach her by telephone from the Austerlitz and couldn't get an answer. Perhaps you haven't had time to find out why, so I'll tell you. By a most strange coincidence, there was a fire last night in the Morlock garage and the telephone wires, strung just outside it, were burned and put out of commission. "When I got to the house the confusion was at its peak—fire engines all over the street, salvaged automobiles parked anywhere, guests and servants running in and out to watch the show. No one knew where any one else was, or had been."

Doyle lowered his voice impressively. "While I was looking around I saw a woman's figure going into the house through the side door. I couldn't see her face, but I got a good look at the fur coat and the shoes. This woman had come up the rear walk. I could see her footprints in the snow. Everybody was over on the other side of the house, watching the garage burn."

"Well, I finally found a housemaid running excitedly around the hall and I asked for Mrs. Dufresne. The girl went upstairs and in a minute or two Mrs. Dufresne came down. Harper, you can imagine the jolt I got when I recognized the slippers!"

"Not only that, but they were soaking wet from the snow, as wet as my shoes were from walking over a mile in it! And when Mrs. Dufresne sent for her coat, to go along with me there was the same fur coat I had seen disappearing through the side door, the fur still damp from melted snow. Now, what do you make of that?"

Harper was silently digesting this story of the reporters. "That will bear a lot of thought, Doyle," he answered slowly.

"Get this—my final broadside, Harper. I don't know how far you've gone with your investigations but it strikes me that there's something in this case resembling the state of Denmark in Hamlet's time."

Doyle stood up and pointed through the window. "Do you see that stone wall? That's the boundary wall of Dufresne's property. On the other side of the wall are thick bushes. Last night some one bid there between the bushes and the wall, walked up and down and watched this house, most likely this very room. There is your witness! Find him, and you'll know what went on here last night!"

A few moments later Sergeant Harper and his assistant, Lafferty, bent thoughtfully over the sketch the former had drawn of the Dufresne house and grounds.

They just had come in from their inspection of the spot Doyle had discovered by a fortunate chance. The reporter's final broadside had been very telling, indeed, riddling into holes the inferential evidence so far provided by the killings. A witness, and a secret one, certainly substantiated Harper's doubts that the affair had been "haphazard." Here was the first hint of premeditation.

"That is certainly a choice bit of luck," Lafferty chuckled. "Wait till we blaze away with that and see whose feathers fly."

"That's exactly what we're not going to do," Harper countered. "It's an ace up our sleeve, but that's the best place for it at present. It's something to think about quietly, not brag about."

"Well, you're passing up a fine chance to put up on the screws. You're giving them too much time to get their stories ready. I'm sure that smart chauffeur, Donaghy, is wise to something, and then there is old Andrews and that sour-faced Mrs. Whitmore—all likely material to work on. You can trust the servants to know things."

Harper smiled. "Don't let your patience get out of control, Jack. I'm deliberately giving these people plenty of time to think it over. If they're concealing something, they're sure to elaborate too much and take enough rope to hang themselves."

Dr. Thomas L. Cline Says Athletics Has Influence For Good on All Campuses

Dr. Thomas L. Cline, head of the English department at Gettysburg college, and member of the college athletic council, told the members of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Athletic conference, at its spring dinner-meeting, Monday night, at the Hotel Gettysburg, that he was "in favor of any reasonable athletic program" and that he believed college athletics "have a heavy influence upon the campus."

Dr. Cline spoke in the absence of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, who was absent from the city.

"This conference has made unusual strides forward. It has had a beneficial influence throughout the state and there is a heartier and closer feeling of fellowship and good sportsmanship now than there has ever been among the colleges," Doctor Cline said.

Gentlemen's Agreement
"Rules and regulations are not to be compared with a gentlemen's agreement and I am convinced that the members of this conference have abided by their rules, regulations and their gentlemen's agreement. This sincere fellowship and friendliness bespeaks well for the conference and in turn it has enabled athletics to be a real moral and disciplinary influence upon our campuses," the speaker continued.

Prof. A. S. H. Fasig, of Muhlenberg, retiring president of the conference, endorsed Doctor Cline's remarks and expressed his personal convictions of the honesty and sincerity of the conference members. He also commended Gettysburg college for its warm hospitality, and thanked the members for their cooperation during his term in office.

Dr. H. H. Beck, of Franklin and Marshall, new president of the conference, and president of the Lancaster county historical society, said he has always had a warm interest in the conference and that he hoped to have this feeling prevail during his term in office.

Finest Tour

Doctor Beck said that he had toured the battlefield on a number of occasions but that he never enjoyed his tour as much as he did Monday's visit when he was escorted by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the history department at college. "It was the finest detailed explanation I have ever had and it was the most enjoyable historical tour I have ever made. I shall be glad to encourage my friends to make a similar tour," Doctor Beck continued.

George H. Hummel, president of the college athletic council, presided as toastmaster. Nineteen members of the conference from Ursinus, Muhlenberg, Franklin and Marshall, Dickinson and Gettysburg were present at the dinner-meeting.

PARACHUTE FAILS TO OPEN; JUMPER STUNNED

Three hundred feet from the ground the emergency parachute opened but failed to check entirely the force of Dunn's fall and he was knocked unconscious when he hit the ground. A doctor was sent for but fifteen minutes later, before the physician arrived, Dunn recovered consciousness. Dunn Sunday night apparently had suffered no ill effects from his fall.

OLD TIMERS TO PLAY THURSDAY

Team Returns From "Southern Trip" and "Artie" Phiel Is Now Signed.

"Doc" Crist's Old Timers open their "big league" season, Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at Hunters-town.

The customary flag-raising and "first ball tossing by the mayor" will be dispensed with so that the "ancient rivals" may resume their hostilities as soon as the teams reach the diamond.

The Old Timers have just returned from a "southern training trip," their manager said, and all of the players are in fine fettle, with the exception of "Art" Hutchison and "Hen" Bream who have not recovered from a heavy winter program of business and sports.

"Doc" Crist today announced that "Artie" Phiel has signed up to play "any old position" while "Charlie" Dougherty will accompany the Old Timers in the role of "mascot" and "water boy."

"Doc" Crist is dickering for the services of "Tick" Enders, former Gettysburg college shortstop, to fill that position with the "Old Timers" while he (Enders, not Crist) attends summer school at college this year.

But thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

For indeed he accepted the exhortation; but being more forward, of his own accord he went unto you.

And we have sent with him the brother, whose praise is in the gospel throughout all the churches;

And not that only, but who was also chosen of the churches, to travel with us with this grace, which is administered by us to the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your ready mind;

Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us;

Providing for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have often-times proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which I have in you.

Whether any do inquire of Titus, he is my partner and fellow helper concerning you; or our brethren be inquired of, they are the messengers of the churches, and the glory of Christ.

Wherefore, ye ye to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your behalf.

First Gettysburg Excursion to Pine Grove Park.

The undersigned begs leave to inform the public that he will have a grand excursion, by a special train to Pine Grove park on Wednesday, May 28. Train to leave Gettysburg at 8 a. m. and the park at 5 p. m.

The route, a distance of 30 miles, on the new railway presents grand scenery. Indeed, one may travel very many miles in Europe without being half so well pleased as in crossing the summit of South mountain and running along the valley to Pine Grove.

Col. Fuller, to whose untiring labors and enterprise the citizens of Adams county are so much indebted for the splendid new railroad, has made the park attractive in every manner possible. At the railway station there is a large green plot, upon which the lovers of athletic sports can exercise themselves at baseball or other games. Near by runs Mountain creek, with a small lake for boating. A rifle range of 200 yards is not far distant. The park, covered with pine trees, has several fountains of purest water. Lunch tables and seats are found everywhere, and there is a large range to provide hot coffee for basket dinners. The restaurant is ready to serve a good meal at 50 cents.

Among the chief places of amusement mention may be made of the large dancing pavilion and a fine large bowling alley. The children are supplied with safe and strong swings and flying horses—all free of charge. Many rustic buildings afford shelter in case of rain. In a word everything that renders a picnic ground attractive is to be found there.

Therefore, come one, come all—the more the merrier—to enjoy a ride over the grand new railroad and spend a happy day.

Round trip tickets 70 cents, children up to 12 years, half fare. Train will stop for passengers at the Arendtsville road.

Jos. A. Boll.

Yesterday the Get. and Har. railroad put a force of track layers at work extending their main line up Railroad street, between Washington and Carlisle streets, also laying tracks on the Round Top extension.

PHYSICIANS USE WHISKY

INSTEAD OF ANAESTHETIC Kansas City, May 15 (AP)—Whisky was substituted for a general anaesthetic in a delicate operation to save the life of Harold William Powers, 16 days old.

Physicians at the general hospital Monday disclosed that the child had been operated on last Friday for the removal of a stomach obstruction and appeared to be on the road to recovery.

Harold was so young that ether could not be used. A small sack of sugar was placed in his mouth and the anaesthetist dropped whisky on it.

A local anaesthetic then was applied and an operation performed to cut the overdeveloped muscular wall at the lower end of the stomach, which prevented food passing into the intestines.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE SOUL ETERNAL

THERE is one thing that is impossible to define—and that is the soul—the human soul, and the soul of things. There is a kind of silent soul, even that seems to live in inanimate things. We stood upon a grand mountain recently—and the soul of it seemed to surge right through us.

We looked out upon a range of mountains—the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia—the other day, and a glorious grey-blue mist bathed the entire range as far as the eye could see. And the sun stood over it all, like a kind mother, and the clouds formed shadows that crept over the great tops and along the sloping sides, forming a garment of soft purple and delicate hues, as though scanning the edges in the valleys to inquire of the blooming dogwood what spring was all about, anyway.

We stopped our car. We sat immune to time, fascinated, thrilled. Winter's blast was over. Spring was coming into her own. What beauty! All along the roadside tiny blue flowers were in wedding garb. The green grass of the hills against the wonderful and colorful red clay displayed a picture that no human artist could well reproduce.

There we sat thinking, our hearts bubbling with joy—our souls being nourished. Something of the eternal soul of things—of rocks, mountains, fields, flowers, streams, birds and sky seemed to touch us, enliven us, and whisper messages of happiness to us. The soul eternal through all!

I never walk through a forest without feeling that the very trees talk to me. They seem almost human in their great strength and in the beauty of their formation. This winter I viewed a great banyan tree that is said to be over a thousand years old and valued at over a million dollars—but the valuation placed upon it made me smile. Who can justify, or adequately, put a valuation upon such a spectacle as a great tree?

So far as I am concerned, I shall always feel that a tree has a soul! Something within every tree is akin to the soul of this Me of mine at least.

Through time and space the soul eternal treads on. How wise and happy those who see in its journey the everlasting intelligence of one Supreme Mind over all.

Rains and Freak Snow-Storm Alleviate Mid-West Drought

Chicago, May 15 (AP).—Rains and a freak snow storm combined Sunday to give the sun-parched mid-west promise of the end of the severe drought that for weeks caused terrific damage to crops.

The rains, drizzles in some sections, downpours in others, were more or less general in the drought area. Agricultural experts said that the precipitation aided the dwarfed crops but more rain was imperative to bring permanent improvement. Clouds and forecasts of rain gave farmers cheer.

Snow fell for an hour in the territory at Scotts Bluff, Nebraska, melting as it hit the ground. It brought a half inch of moisture to the best fields which had been showing signs of an uneven stand.

Elsewhere in Nebraska, cool and damp weather prevailed after thunder showers Saturday. At Sterling four and one-half inches of rain fell and Sunday there were showers over large portions of the state.

More Dust Storms in Iowa Iowa had scattered showers but dust storms were reported again at Sioux City and Cherokee. Charles Reed, meteorologist, said Saturday's rains in Iowa were sufficient to assure germination of corn and would help the oats crop. Two men were killed in the state by lightning.

In Wisconsin rain was general throughout the state, ranging from one inch. Minnesota and parts of South Dakota also had light rains but not sufficient to give permanent relief from the six weeks dry spell. There were a few scattered showers, none heavy, in Illinois.

Agricultural observers agreed that the rains were a help to the crops, but so far were just stop-gaps pending further necessary heavy rains if crops were to be aided materially.

A. E. Anderson, the state-federal crops statistician in Nebraska, said much wheat would do "surprisingly well" now if soaking rains followed the showers of Saturday and Sunday.

EX-CONVICT, TELESCOPE EXPERT, S LOCATED

Pasadena, Cal., May 15 (AP).—John E. Mellish, former convict being sought by glass makers as one of the few men in the world with sufficient skill to assist in production of the world's largest telescope, is living quietly on parole at Escondido, it was learned Monday from scientists at the California Institute of Technology.

Mellish, on parole after a law violation in Kane county, Illinois, is engaged in working on telescopes. Officials of seven universities

Mexico, D. F., May 15 (AP).—Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, former president of Cuba, left for Havana today with a number of new ideas of government gained during his three-month stay in Mexico, but he was noncommittal when asked if he would be a candidate for president in elections scheduled late this year.

Grau said he has "a large number of followers and sympathizers," and that he would work with them to put into effect measures to benefit Cuba.

The former president, who was forced to resign partly because the United States refused to recognize his government, said despite that he is "a good friend and admirer of the American people."

ENDURANCE FLYER SHOT IN COUNTRY CLUB ROW

Sparta, Ill., May 15 (AP).—Kenneth Hunter, one of four brothers who established a flight endurance record of 553 hours at Chicago in 1930, was shot and critically wounded as the climax to a quarrel with a St. Louis physician at a country club here Sunday.

Dr. Richard Bullard, St. Louis, was questioned. The shooting, police said, followed an argument between Hunter and Dr. Bullard over attentions Hunter had been paying a young woman who accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Bullard here from St. Louis.

BLAMES RUSS FOR KILLINGS

Japs Say Manchurians Were Killed by Rifle Fire From Russian Side.

Tokyo, May 15 (AP).—The slaying of a Manchukuan sailor and the wounding of another on the Amur river Saturday was laid down by Japanese army reports Monday to a burst of rifle fire from military positions on the Russian bank of the river.

An investigation of the incident was begun by the newly formed state of Manchukuo.

Japanese reports said the sailors were felled while aboard a steamer.

Protest Is Held Likely

Comment was declined by the war office, but a spokesman said that officials at Manchukuo, Japanese-dominated state, which recently enthroned Henry Pu-yi as emperor, were seeking to get to the bottom of the affair.

A protest to Moscow appeared likely, especially in view of the strained relations between Japan and the Soviet in the Far East.

A Rengo (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Hsinking, capital of the new state, said Manchukuo would lodge a protest with the Soviet consul-general at Harbin.

Troops Aboard Vessel

Dispatches to the newspaper Asahi from Thitsihar said that a detachment of Japanese troops enroute to Helio was aboard the vessel, but this was not mentioned in the army report.

The shooting occurred near the junction of the Amur and Sungari rivers. The Amur forms Manchukuo's northern boundary.

Russia Pleads Ignorance

Moscow, May 15 (AP).—The Soviet foreign office Monday night said it had received no information concerning a Japanese report that a Manchukuan sailor had been killed Saturday by the rifle fire from Russian territory on the bank of the Amur river.

NELLIE'S NEEDLEPOINT

For a year she has worked on that tapestry piece

And I've watched her and thought, Will that task ever cease?

Her fingers, as fast as the swift fleeing hours,

Have spun tangles of thread into borders of flowers.

There's a gown of brocade

For an old-fashioned maid

Where stitch after stitch with precision was laid.

Last night as together we sat, from my book,

I rose at that tapestry once more to look.

'Twas spread on her knee and with purple and gold

She was trimming the cloak of grand duke of old.

But the thought came to me

That forever I'd see

Her love and her charm in that bright tapestry.

In the colors and figures so skillfully blent

I saw woven the evenings together we've spent.

Each bud and each blossom are

The Miracle Refrigerator

ENTIRELY NEW

A patented and exclusive process that provides better refrigeration, assuring constant cold at all times at lowest cost.

The most economical and efficient refrigerator ever built. No machinery to get out of order.

Keeps food "garden fresh"—no covered dishes required.

A Coolerator does more than just provide cold temperatures. It retains in the food the vital juices and flavor. Coolerators furnish a constant rapid air circulation that does not cause perishable foods to become wilted and discolored.

Foods to be healthful require air and water (humidity) just as humans do. Prevention of drying out of food juices and flavor is a health necessity. Coolerators keep food perfect. No covered dishes are required as recommended in mechanical refrigerators.

ECONOMICAL TO OPERATE

Coolerators cost one-third the price of a mechanical refrigerator of the same food capacity—and only half as much to operate. Will last twice as long as a mechanical refrigerator.

Before you buy any kind of refrigeration, ice or mechanical, investigate the Coolerator. Easy Terms.

Attractive

This funeral home of ours is pleasing to the eye in every respect. The building itself has an attractive exterior and is set off by appropriate landscaping. The whole has about it the atmosphere of a fine home.

Three Men

intermediary. Police said all of the telephone calls had been made in Beverly Hills and Hollywood, many of them from within a few blocks of the Gettle home.

Kidnapped Last Week
Gettle was kidnapped shortly before midnight last Wednesday from his secluded country estate in Arcadia, about twenty-five miles east of Los Angeles. He had been entertaining four friends in celebration of the completion of the new swimming pool on the five-acre estate, in Arcadia, twenty miles east of here.

It was a clear, warm night when the millionaire and his friends finished their dip in the new swimming pool.

Three women in the party went into the attractive Spanish home, while Gettle donned light clothing with his two companions, James P. Wolf and Albert Hitchin, and went into the recreation hall for a round of drinks to terminate the day and night celebration.

Woman Calls Hitchin
One of the women called Hitchin to the residence.

Then a soft, strange voice at the entrance of the recreation hall said: "Put 'em up, gentlemen."

"It's a hold-up," was the thought of Wolf, as they trekked toward the east end of the estate, and he threw his wallet containing $200 into a bush.

Then one of the men whispered: "This is not a Heist—it's a snatch."

Gettle pleaded: "I'll give you all the money I have on me and go into the house for more if you won't take me away."

Kidnapper Laughs
One of the gunmen laughed: "That won't be enough. This is a kidnapping, fellow."

They took off the neckties of the two victims and bound their hands. Then one of the gunmen deftly unwound rolls of surgical adhesive tape, an inch wide, sealed the mouths of the men and made hobbles around their ankles.

Gettle was moved up a stepladder against a seven-foot stone wall and tumbled down the outside. His groan was met with a curt remark: "Don't be so soft."

Taped To Tree
Wolf then was taped to an elm tree. The gunmen soon were over the wall, and Wolf heard a car drive away.

A letter came to the Arcadu country estate addressed to Mrs. Gettle. Postmarked San Bernardino, Cal., Thursday evening, demanding a ransom of $40,000.

Attorney Noon announced publicly he was ready to pay any reasonable ransom requested.

Federal, state, county and municipal police called off the man hunt at Noon's request to permit negotiations.

First Kidnapping In Area
This was the first kidnapping affecting the Hollywood and Beverly Hills coterie of distinguished and wealthy residents.

Mrs. Gettle issued a statement urging the kidnappers to contact the family attorney.

Noon made a series of mysterious trips Thursday from his office. On Friday he reported he had received a telephone call placing the ransom demand at $75,000. Several other telephone calls were subsequently received. Noon later revealed, some of which he believed actually were from the kidnappers, while others obviously were from cranks.

6-Year-Old

nearly all of the 19 days she had been missing.

June accepted her return home quite calmly, and was able to answer some questions.

Asked for a description of two men she said had put her in the hole, and had visited her there with water and food, she said they called each other "Bill" and "Will," and that one of them wore gloves.

Hundreds of persons had gathered in front of the home of Bernabe Robles within a few minutes after it had become known little June had been returned there.

Police were forced to call out traffic reserves and rope off the scene.

Salaries Summation
All salaries are on the basis of those paid during the year 1933-34, and in addition is included the salary for one extra teacher in the high school. This extra teacher will be necessary if the incoming freshman class compares in size with those of the preceding three or four years.

The following reasons are offered in support of sustaining the salary level of 1933-34:

A recent issue of "Business Week" shows the following gains for the first quarter of 1934 as compared with the same period for 1933: Construction, 136 per cent; steel production, 132 per cent; automobile production, 100 per cent; bituminous coal, 39 per cent; anthracite coal, 53 per cent; electric power, 14 per cent; carloadings, 21 per cent; wholesale prices, 784 times, 21 per cent; retail foods, 16 per cent; cost of living, 8 per cent; department store sales, 27 per cent; farm income, 57 per cent; employment, manufacturing, 30 per cent; payrolls, manufacturing, 56 per cent; stock prices, 90 issues, 67 per cent; bond prices, 40 issues, 71 per cent.

The highest paid teacher in the 1933-34 school year is receiving $34 per week on the basis of 52 weeks in the year. This is the only fair basis to compute salary since teachers must have a place to live, food to eat and clothes to wear the entire year. It may be suggested that they work only nine months in the year. But during that time much of their work must be done after school hours and over vacation periods.

Gettysburg's Rate

Last year Dr. Carmon Ross, in commenting on his study of 32 districts in Pennsylvania, reported the following for his own district. "Doylestown is more fortunate since this district's taxes are bearing 52% of the current expenditures, while the average for the 32 districts was 38%." In this study Gettysburg was next to the lowest and last year we received the lowest appropriation for teachers that we received during the past eight years. With our increased appropriation this year Gettysburg will be supporting her schools less than 50% of the total cost by local taxes.

A further reduction over the 1933-34 salary to a total of 10% will result in a loss to the teachers in spending power of $2,670, while the total gain to the district will amount to only $1,772.25. This comes from the fact that non-resident tuition rate are based largely on teachers' salaries, on which item the local district may charge a 10% overhead. This 10% overhead is allowed by the state to repay the local district in a measure for the trouble of providing for non-resident pupils.

Recapitulation

Estimated receipts: Taxes, $50,461.10; state appropriations, $21,930; tuition, $14,287; rent, $300; total receipts, $86,978.10.

Estimated expenditures: General control, $5,907; instruction, $61,525; auxiliary agencies, $1,890; operation of school plant, $7,300; maintenance of school plant, $4,500; fixed charges, $2,500; debt service, $3,550; total expenditures, $87,172; estimated deficit, $153.90.
